Sewage waste intensifying

Residents told: 'think health'

BY MARY G. SEILEY
Pearlington residents moaned about the cost of a public sewer system Wednesday night -- but not about getting relief from having raw sewage in their ditches.

Some 25 residents gathered in the cafeteria of Charles B. Murphy Elementary school for a briefing on the project by officials of Hancock Wastewater District I, who say they're on the brink of launching a $10 million sewer program.

The money, mostly a grant from the Farmers Home Administration, would add some 850 Pearlington and Belle Isle subdivision residents to the district's system, and finish providing sewer lines in Shoreline Park subdivision.

In all, the proposal calls for adding 1,500 homes to the district's public system. As it stands, most of the homes are on septic tank systems that officials say are doomed to failure when they are installed, because the soils of the area can't accommodate wastewater.

Other homes in the area have even less sophisticated sewer systems: pipes are run directly into ditches, canals, bayous or rivers with untreated wastewater.

At Wednesday's meeting, district officials emphasized a bargain-basement, low cost approach they would take in providing Pearlington residents public sewer lines. If the district is expanded to include that area, and if expected grants materialize, residents will pay a $35-per-month

Attorney battle brewing

BY ED LEPOMA

A battle of attorneys is brewing in Hancock County over the mechanics of adopting sorely needed sewage treatment regulations in unincorporated areas.

Gerald Gex, who represents the board, told supervisors at their meeting Friday that John Scafide, the attorney who represents the Hancock County Planning Commission, didn't give supervisors the whole story at a previous meeting.

Before the Friday meeting was over, supervisors also lashed out at "half-truths and incomplete information" they said has been printed by the Echo in recent stories and editorials exposing the lack of any kind of regulations of onsite wastewater disposal.

Scafide came to an Aug. 11 supervisors meeting to challenge Gex's advice, which led supervisors to rescind an enforcement ordinance. Gex said he had erred when he allowed them to enact the ordinance because a state attorney general's ruling holds that the county has no such power.

Gex told supervisors that Scafide, "failed to advise you as to the structures that were exempted" from the ordinance, as well as the legalities required to enact such a code.

In a four-page letter to the Board of Supervisors, Gex claimed:

The only way the law could be implemented immediately was "unless the board, by a unanimous vote, adopts (it) for the immediate preservation of the public health, safety and welfare."

Barring his declaration, the board is required "within five

Jubilee Casino's woes continue

BY ED LEPOMA

Technically, the state of Mississippi could own Jubilee Casino in three years. But, nobody's taking any bets on it.

Alpha Gulf Coast Inc., which operates the casino at Bayou Caddy, the The Cure family, which leases shore-lands to the Jubilee, Monday petitioned the Hancock County Board of Supervisors to reduce the amount of their 1994 property taxes.

The plea was made the same day that county Tax Assessor Eddie Murtagh's office began to sell at public auction thousands of parcels of land for delinquent taxes.

The peninsula that the Jubilee barge sits on, and all the improvements the casino has made to the area, were up for grabs. The improvements include the casino's mooring system and pier, its power structures, the parking lot and lighting, and the drainage and sewerage systems. Delinquent taxes amount to $116,139.

The Cure property, which Jubilee leases, was auctioned for $48,452, the amount in delinquent taxes.

Nobody bid on the properties at the close of the auction Wednesday. So, technically the state could take title in three years for the amount of taxes that are in arrears, $164,561.

Additionally, Jubilee Casino is contesting $300,000 in taxes

Supervisors to investigate Coastal Health Care funding

BY ED LEPOMA

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors wants to know if Coastal Family Health Care Center would violate some of its funding provisions if it closes down a clinic in Bay St. Louis.

The non-profit organization, which provides health care to uninsured and underinsured residents in the Bay St. Louis-Waveland area, has announced its closing its doors Sept. 29 in a belt-tightening move.

That means the poor and elderly in Hancock County would have to be treated at centers Coastal will maintain in Gulfport, Biloxi or Saucier, all in Harrison County.

Geraldine Lang, a member of the county's Democratic Executive Committee and longtime advocate for the disadvantaged, came to the Board of Supervisors meeting Thursday to ask help providing public or private transportation for those who would be forced to go to Harrison County for medical treatment.

Before the debate ended, supervisors instructed Board attorney Gerald Gex to look into Coastal's funding.

Doyle Moffett, the executive director of the Gulfport-based Gulf Coast Community Action Agency, was recruited by Lang to make the transportation plea to the supervisors. The supervisors told Moffett and Lang they would look into some kind of funding to help with transportation.

There's also a meeting planned Tuesday with 5th District Rep. Gene Taylor to discuss the crisis.

But, Moffett made the suggestion to look into Coastal's funding.

"I think (Mr. Gex) should explore whether the terms of the grant has been violated," said Moffett.

District 5 Supervisor and Board President Michael Ladner said he was disturbed by Coastal's plan to shut down the center.

"Everytime, it's cut, cut, it's Hancock County. I'm getting sick of it," Ladner said.

In other business, Bay St. Louis Mayor Eddie Favre and Waveland Mayor John Mason asked supervisors to consider consolidating the county's recreation activities.

The board took the request under advisement, but noted that a new Board of Supervisors would be taking office next year, and they did not want to make any decisions that would be binding on them.

The mayors said monies could be saved by consolidating, although special legislation would be needed to create a recreation board.

Mason also asked the supervisors for more money than is budgeted for the county's animal shelter, which is located in Waveland.

Mason said Waveland was paying a "disproportionate cost" to operate the shelter. Hancock County and Bay St. Louis provided $18,000 each last year, and another $4,000 was taken in for shelter fees, but Mason said the cost to operate the shelter was $84,605. His figures showed Waveland had to chip in $26,605 to keep the shelter operating last year.

Mason figures showed from October 1, 1994 through July 31 of this year, a total 1,820 stray dogs and cats were taken into the shelter countywide, including 692 from Bay St. Louis and 596 from Waveland.

Mason also said the county should begin now to look for a more central location, since the Waveland shelter has nowhere to expand.

Supervisors are expected to act on Mason's request at its meeting Tuesday.

Affordable housing to begin construction in Pass Christian

BY ED LEPOMA

By spring of next year, Pass Christian will have 100 more modern and affordable apartment units.

Ground was broken Wednesday for the $5 million Oak Villa apartment complex. It will be located on North Street, off Menge Avenue and just east of Courtenay Avenue.

City and state officials, as well as private developers and financiers, were on hand for the ceremonies held on a 7.5-acre, oak-shaded site fronting Johnson Bayou.

It was the last official act for Mayor Ted Lawyer, who resigned Aug. 30 on medical disability, and Lawyer told the crowd, "This is a good way to go out. This is what my administration has been all about."

building for the future of the community.

Lawyer said 40 percent of the city's population would be eligible to afford to live in the Oak Villa Apartments, as well as others who will move into West Harrison County. He said the city needs more affordable housing.

The project was seeded with a $250,000 grant from the Mississippi Home Corp. and about $1.9 million in tax credits. Neddie R. Winters, Executive Director of the MHC, said it is one of the first to get financed, using a partnership of local, state and private developers.

Mark Garaga, Gov. Kirk Fordice's chief of staff, said Oak Villa represented a new model for government because it involves the government and private sectors.

This is an investment program, not a spending program," said Garaga. He said about 29 similar projects are planned around the state in the future.

The Oak Villa complex will offer 50 two-bedroom units and 50 three-bedroom units. It will have a swimming pool, playground and picnic area, a community clubhouse and laundry facilities on site. Rents would start at $365 for a two-bedrooms and $410 for a three-bedroom unit.

A family's annual income would need to be in the $15,000 to $20,000 range in order to qualify to live in the apartments, but the income level could vary, according to the size of the family.

Co-developers are Curt Busching, vice president for Intervest, a Jackson-based diversified housing corporation, and local realtor John C. Ellis III, president of JCE Commercial Properties. First National Bank of Commerce in New Orleans and underwriter Howard Weill of New Orleans secured financing.

Busching said, "Our research indicates that affordable two and three-bedroom rental units are in demand on the coast. Our site was selected because of the natural privacy, the huge oak trees offer and accessibility to Highway 90 and I-10 from Menge Avenue."

Leasing activity will begin sometime in November with occupancy of the first units slated for April of 1996.

Pass Christian election Oct. 3

A special election is scheduled in Pass Christian Oct. 3 to elect a new mayor.

Deadline for candidates to qualify is Sept. 23, but the deadline to register to vote passed at noon Saturday.

According to the city clerk's office, in order to qualify, candidates must submit petitions with the signatures of 50 registered voters.

After the ballots are printed, you can vote in person by absentee ballot until noon, Sept. 30. Mailed-in absentee ballots will be accepted until 4 p.m. Oct. 2.

The special election is to fill the office vacated by longtime Mayor Ted Lawyer, who resigned citing failing health, Aug. 30.

Burch's bond was set at $5,000 Eley said, and the substance was cocaine.

"A year long investigation led to the arrest and the task force was assisted by the DEA and Customs," Eley said.

Other arrests are expected.

Bay Council should follow P&Z lead

The Bay St. Louis Planning and Zoning Commission, discussed in this space recently, deserves a pat on the back for its courageous vote concerning a proposed bed and breakfast on Beach Boulevard.

In front of a partisan crowd opposing the B&B, the commission voted 5-1 in favor of granting a zoning exception, paving the way for the project to proceed. It was a step forward not only for the developers, but the entire city.

Now the battleground shifts to the Bay City Council, which is expected to vote on the commission's recommendation at its Sept. 5 meeting. Unfortunately, it appears at this time the council, in a rare move, will reject the P&Z recommendation.

A "No" vote will hurt not only the developers, but the entire community as well. To deny the exception request is telling the developers they and their money are not welcome in Bay St. Louis.

More critical, however, is that council members will be making a statement to Bay citizens that economic growth is undesirable and unnecessary to the city's overall stability. That same message will be clear to any potential developer wishing to invest in the Bay economy.

If the council votes down the recommendation, once again it will be a case of a small group of prominent citizens dictating city policy.

The overworked battle cry of the group opposed to the proposed B&B is "creeping commercialism." Indeed, that is a valid concern. No one wants to see Beach Boulevard become the neon playground that defines Highway 90 in Harrison County.

But this bed and breakfast proposal will only enhance the neighborhood, and return to glory a Bay icon that was about to die an ignominious death. The P&Z did the right thing by approving the exception.

It is now up to the Bay City Council to show the same courage and follow the commission's lead.

FROM THE SENATE

By Senator Trent Lott

What happened to the war on drugs?

In early August, President Clinton proposed the toughest restrictions ever put on tobacco use. His plan, if implemented, will give the Food and Drug Administration unprecedented regulatory powers which he says are aimed at halting the rise in teen smoking. Interestingly enough, his proposal came two months after one of the nation's largest tobacco companies introduced a $20 million campaign to discourage juvenile smoking and announced it was placing a new warning on cigarette packs: "Underage Sale Prohibited."

The President's emphasis on tobacco invites a comparison to his shift in strategy in stopping illegal drugs. The President's 1995 budget reduces funding for the interdiction of foreign drugs by $95 million and cuts money for drug-operation intelligence by $600,000 from 1994 levels.

Last year, the Clinton Administration abruptly halted military radar tracking of drug-trafficking flights from Peru and Colombia. The Pentagon's civilian lawyers convinced the President that there was a potential for lawsuits in the event that Colombian or Peruvian air forces, using intelligence information provided by the United States from these flights, shot down aircraft.

Prior to the halt order, data from the drug flights had resulted in raids on drug labs and storage facilities that netted about 300 metric tons of illegal drugs in 1993. Those are drugs which would have found their way on to American streets.

Prior to that, President Clinton announced he would begin scaling back the use of aircraft and naval ships for drug interdiction in the Caribbean as part of a projected $200 million reduction in the Pentagon's counter-narcotics program. That action was a marked shift in the military's anti-drug role under president Bush who for the first time used military resources against the international drug trade.

Interestingly enough, the White House drug czar's office, which was created to oversee drug policy, has been silent on all these policy shifts. But, then President Clinton cut that office staff by more than 80 percent.

Certainly we want to discourage underage tobacco smoking, but I question the President's priorities in targeting tobacco, a legal product, over the interdiction of deadly drugs which are illegal.

A study released in July by the National Institute of Drug Abuse comparing tobacco and illegal drug use among high school students produced some startling data. It showed that marijuana use among eighth graders has more than doubled since 1991 — up a whopping 144 percent. Smoking among 8th graders since 1991 is up less than a third.

The study showed that among 12th graders, reported increases in illegal drug use since 1991 were up 34 percent. Marijuana use among this group rose almost 40 percent. The increase reported in smoking among 12th graders was 10 percent.

In the last year, increases in the reported use of illegal drugs was about five times the increase in smoking among high school seniors (20 percent versus four percent). Between 1993 and 1994, the rate of increase for illegal drug use was almost three times that for smoking among eighth graders (30 percent versus 11 percent). The survey's most sobering finding is this: high school seniors' "disapproval" and "perceived risk" of drug use has diminished at a far greater rate than their attitudes about smoking.

Illegal drugs are slow death which are being sold to young Americans by international pushers. I wish the President would worry a little more about drugs and about securing our borders against them.

Senator Lott welcomes any questions and/or comments about this column. Please write to: Senator Trent Lott, 487 Russell Building, Washington, D.C. 20510 (Attention: Press Office).

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Rock/plant filters could help prevent sewage runoff

Dear Editor:

The recent front page Sea Coast Echo article by Mary G. Seiley concerning raw sewage in Hancock County was one of the best investigative articles I've seen published here on the Coast.

Untreated sewage is a huge problem here on the Mississippi Coast, one that not only threatens public health, but also harms the marine environment and causes significant economic losses because of oyster reef closures caused by sewage contamination.

As Jim Weston with the health department points out, it is nothing short of a scandal that this problem has been allowed to go on for so long. Hancock County needs to adopt the same type of health codes as required in neighboring counties where an approved home wastewater treatment system must be in place prior to permanent electricity being turned on for a house.

The Hancock supervisors have long resisted county zoning or plumbing codes with the lame excuse that people don't want their land use regulated. But is it fair for one homeowner to dump sewage on another? Is it fair for fat cat developers to make large profits by selling uninformed people lots that are too small for a home wastewater system?

Is it fair for homeowners to cause economic hardship for commercial fishermen by dumping raw sewage that closes the oyster reefs? That is exactly what has happened due to the lack of plumbing codes in Hancock County.

It is important that Hancock County supervisors find out that people do care about requiring proper sewage treatment. This should be a major issue in the current election campaign. I urge Hancock voters to talk to supervisor candidates, and ask them to take a stand favoring a plumbing code for Hancock County.

When the new board of supervisors takes office, one of their first actions should be to protect public health and homeowners by adopting a plumbing code. Then the board needs to get to work on solving the huge problems with existing developments that are dumping raw sewage.

I'd also like to comment on the photo of elephant ears in a ditch which accompanies Mary Seiley's article. People need to know that plants such as elephant ears actually take up the pollutants in wastewater.

One solution to the home wastewater problem on the Coast is to install what are known as "rock/plant" filters, natural sewage treatment systems that use a trench filled with gravel and plants to purify wastewater after it leaves a septic tank. So, instead of cleaning out ditches to help sewage run off quickly, home owners should encourage aquatic growth to help treat the wastewater.

The solution isn't to get the wastewater to run off your property as quickly as possible, but to see it as something that can actually be an asset: Capture your wastewater to make a beautiful flowerbed that never needs to be fertilized or watered, it can be that easy.

Costs start at about $1,500 for adding a rock/plant filter to an existing septic tank or $2,200 for installing a completely new system. If you can't afford to install a rock/plant filter, for less than $100 you can add a truck load of sand over the failing leach field — taking care not to let heavy equipment drive over the leach field, which can cause it to collapse — and plant it with vegetation such as water iris, bananas, lilies, umbrella palms, or wild plants such as reeds and elephant ears.

Certainly this "sand filter" won't be as ideal as installing the health department-approved rock/plant filters. It won't, for example, protect your drinking water supply if you have a well within 100 feet of your septic system. But the sand filter can prevent the wastewater from going into the bays and bayous, and it is better than doing nothing for people who can't afford the rock/plant system.

Anyone who wants more information about the rock/plant filters can give me a call at 601-872-3457, and I'll send a free handout.

Sincerely,
Becky Gillette

Questions and answers on life insurance

By Donald Mauffray, CVSO

Q. What options do I have for receiving dividend payments on my government life insurance policy?

A. There are several options available to you. Your dividend can be sent to you annually. It can be held in an interest-bearing account and used to make payments on loans against your policy or to pay premiums in advance.

You can use it to buy more insurance. Lastly, you can use the dividend partly to pay premiums and the rest can be sent to you, used to make loan payments, or used to buy more insurance.

Q. I let my government life insurance policy lapse. Can I reinstate it? If so, how long do I have and what must I do?

A. If you have a term policy or any policy beginning with "J" or "JK," you have five years to reinstate your policy.

To reinstate those policies, you must complete an application for reinstatement, and you must pay the premium for the month the policy lapsed and the month you reinstate.

If you have whole life or endowment type policy, you can reinstate at any time. To reinstate those types of policies, you must complete an application for reinstatement, and you must pay all unpaid premiums, plus interest.

In any case, if your policy has lapsed a year or longer, you must meet good health requirements to reinstate your policy.

Q. Are government life insurance payments taxable?

A. No. The Internal Revenue Service has ruled that government life insurance benefits are not subject to federal income tax. This even includes interest earned on accumulated dividends. However, you should contact your local tax authority about possible state or local taxes.

Q. When my husband died, VA furnished a headstone for his grave. We purchased two plots in the cemetery and I plan to be buried next to my husband. Will VA furnish me a headstone to match his?

A. No. VA headstones and markers are provided for the unmarked graves of veterans. VA cannot issue a headstone or marker for a spouse or dependent buried in a private cemetery.

In a national cemetery, the spouse shares a headstone with her husband, regardless of who dies first, with name and inscriptions of the veteran appearing on the front of the upright headstone and the spouse's name and inscriptions appearing on the backside.

If, however, the burial takes place in a section of the cemetery where only flat markers are used, the veteran and spouse each receive a separate marker.

At the time of death of either the veteran or his/her spouse, a plot is reserved side by side for the surviving spouse.

"CUEVAS' QUOTES"

Don't forget the big fire works display on Waveland's Beach Boulevard tonight, sponsored by the Waveland Civic Association.

The fireworks display has been one of Labor Day weekend's big attractions for many years and will be handled by Classy Fireworks from Mandeville, who will be assisted by Waveland firefighters and Waveland police.

The fireworks are brought to you by the Waveland Civic Association in cooperation with Hancock County and the cities of Bay St. Louis and Waveland.

The time for the fireworks is set at 8:30 p.m. at the Garfield Ladner Memorial Pier on Beach Boulevard at Coleman Avenue.

There is a tremendous viewing area from the beach, and I understand there will be 180 shots with a grand finale of 10 big sonic booms.

I am hoping the beachfront in Waveland will be filled with spectators for the event, which really marks the end of summer for our area.

This is an active weekend for the Waveland Civic Association, as they will also sponsor the annual Jerry Lewis Muscular Dystrophy Telethon, which will be held at Casino Magic in Bay St. Louis.

The telethon's local telephones will be manned from 7 p.m. tonight through Monday night.

The local telephone number is 466-8003.

Louie Smolensky is the chairman for the drive, a position he has held for many years. Last year some $7,400 was raised, and a goal of $10,000 has been set for this year.

This year WLOX-TV will air the telethon from 10:30 p.m. tonight through 6 p.m. on Monday.

Jay Fountain, president of the Waveland Civic Association urges all residents to make a telephone call to make a pledge, or better, to do it in person at the local telethon headquarters at Casino Magic.

Louie reports he will be at the telethon to greet each and every one of you.

I have already given my check, and I hope you will too, as a cure for Muscular Dystrophy needs to be found.

I do want to compliment everyone for their assistance with the telethon, the workers and also the donors. One day, I am hoping a cure will be found.

I notice a couple of my friends, a father and son, who seem to have lost their razors.

I know that after three days in the hospital it sure was refreshing when a nursing assistant gave me a shave.

It was good to get the whiskers off my face as they were beginning to itch.

I also had the great idea that since I now have only a little hair on my head, I would see if I could grow a beard while at home recovering.

That idea lasted only one day, as the whiskers began to itch, and I rounded up a shaver real fast.

Well, I guess to each his own.

BREWER'S WORLD

By Jimmie Brewer

I have wine and dined in the finest restaurants in the country. I have strolled along white sand beaches and peered over bodies of water on every coast of the United States, including Alaska.

I've seen the changing of the guard and walked along the Thames River in London. I've dangled my feet over the edge of docks surrounded by the prettiest lakes in the world.

I've even traversed the frozen countryside of our largest state by way of snowmobile.

Recently, I found myself speeding up a canal in a boat piloted by a dude with an ear-ring in his nose and a hearty appetite for thrills and chills.

At first, a nice leisurely boat ride up the Cal-Sag canal into the Chicago River, eventually ending up in downtown Chicago amidst the overwhelming size and beauty of the local architecture, sounded like a pretty good idea.

It turned into a harrowing, hair-on-the-back-of-the-neck raising race up a very narrow body of water, at mach one speed, slowing down only when someone would holler, "BARGE STRAIGHT AHEAD!"

Then, the thrill-seeking pilot Denny, would calmly move some levers upright and slow the boat to a crawl in about one-quarter of a second. This action, while quite exhilarating, had the potential to cause a slight discomfort, I informed Denny.

Nevertheless, he would slither around the barge and resume "full speed ahead."

Clearly, he thought I was enjoying myself because every time he turned to look at me, I had what appeared to be a large smile on my face.

What was really happening was the force of the wind was forcing my chubby cheeks towards the back of my head, resulting in what only appeared to be a big grin.

Finally, after what seemed to be a lifetime, I saw the most beautiful sign I have ever laid eyes on. It was a "No Wake Zone" sign.

It would take several columns to describe seeing downtown Chicago from the water. Let's just say it was awesome.

But for now, I'm clicking my heels three times and saying, "There's no place like Paradise." * * *

on its slot machines, gaming tables, and other equipment aboard the barge.

Jubilee officials contend, like the President and Grand Casinos in Biloxi and Gulfport, that the barge and improvements are 100 percent exempt from taxes. It may take a court ruling to resolve that dispute.

Legally, the Tax Assessor can go to court within 20 days in an attempt to collect the $300,000 that is owed on the business personal property, according to F. Lee Bennett, chief appraiser.

Jubilee and Cure contend their total taxes should be around $181,433 for 1994. This is more than $272,000 less than the total the county is demanding in property and business personal property taxes.

After a meeting Friday, Bennett was hopeful a compromise could be reached in time for a Sept. 5 meeting of the Board of Supervisors.

Assessor Murtagh and Bennett met with attorneys and appraisers representing Jubilee.

"It was a very positive meeting," Bennett said.

The hassle over how much Jubilee's property and improvements are worth and how much tax is owed the county first flared up last January when Jubilee received a tax bill for more than $450,000.

The taxes were assessed on the casino barge, its slot machines, and other improvements to the site, including lighting, parking, sewerage and drainage.

Murtagh claimed, although some of the property belongs to the state and county, it is leased by Jubilee and any improvements are taxable.

Jubilee officials expressed "shock" over the assessment, saying they were led to understand by a yet-unnamed source that they could expect a tax bill for around $90,000.

Murtagh countered that taxes on the slot machines alone would total more than $90,000.

In February, Jubilee threatened to sue over the tax bill, and casino officials and attorneys met in a 90-minute closed-door session, then emerged only to say nothing had been resolved. They asked parties to continue negotiating.

Subsequently, the appraised value of Jubilee's barge, its slots and everything on water was reduced from an initial $31.9 million to $23.8 million, then to $22.2 million.

The petition filed by Jubilee attorneys Monday claimed that the casino barge and improvements are 100 percent tax exempt, that some of the property was assessed for more than its actual value, and that wrong depreciation schedules were used in computing the taxes.

Even the petition for relief that Jubilee filed is in dispute.

Murtagh says state law requires that the protest should have been lodged prior to the last Monday in August, but it was actually filed on the day of the tax sale, Monday Aug. 28.

John Kingsbury, Jubilee's general manager, said the casino is exercising the right afforded any citizen or corporation which doesn't agree with a tax assessment.

"Assuming we don't have a meeting of the minds, we will then present our case to the supervisors. They will make a decision or stand by the assessment."

Kingsbury said if neither the Board of Supervisors, the Tax Assessor or Jubilee can arrive at a compromise, "We might

Man shoots burglar

A Leetown man shot and wounded one man early Saturday morning who was allegedly preparing to burglarize his house a second time, Hancock County Sheriff Office officials said.

Jeremy Joseph Smith, 19, of Pass Christian was shot in the right arm by Jack Ferrill of 10361 Browns Road at approximately 1:19 a.m. Saturday, according to Lt. George Burleson of the sheriff's office. Brian David Lassabe, 20, of Long Beach and James Michael Ball of Harrison County had allegedly robbed Ferrill's home earlier in the evening, and were returning a second time, Burleson said. But Ferrill was waiting with a 12-gauge shotgun, and when the three returned, he began waving the gun, Burleson said.

He said Lassabe, who was driving, waved what appeared to be a gun at Ferrill, who then began firing at the car. One of the bullets struck Joseph in the arm. His injury was not serious.

Burleson said Lassabe was waving a gun holder, not a gun. After the shots were fired, the three subjects left, but were quickly apprehended on Highway 603 by Sgt. Timothy Broder and Deputy Ron Borja.

The subjects had allegedly stolen a set of stereo speakers from Ferrill's house earlier in the evening, Burleson said. Jason Ferrill, Jack Ferrill Jr., Rebecca Ferrill and Katrin Carden, all children of Jack Ferrill, allegedly saw two of the suspects leaving the house and notified their father, according to Burleson.

The three suspects were charged with burglarly. Jack Ferrill was not charged, although the incident remains under investigation, Burleson said.

East Central teaches Bay High painful lesson

Tigers drop to 0-2 despite second good effort

BY RICHARD MEEK

Bay High had a glimpse Friday night of what the Tigers hope is their football future.

Unfortunately for the Tigers, this is the present, as perennial power East Central made clear in a 28-6 whipping at Joe McCullough Stadium.

"East Central is as good a football team as you will play," Bay High coach Walter Esslinger said. "We want to get to the point where they are, where they are expected to win."

"Their program has a lot of continuity. Their coaches have been there forever and that is important."

The Tigers were outmanned in every department, giving up a huge size advantage on both the offensive and defensive lines. So dominant were the Hornets in their season opener that they rolled up 373 yards, and held the Tigers, 0-2, to 93, 64 coming on one drive.

The Tigers' Wali Shabazz, who gained 140 yards a week ago, was held to 46 yards on 15 carries. James Benton, who missed last week's opener with an injury, led Bay High with 60 yards on 10 carries.

"(East Central) is big and physical," Esslinger said. "They did a good job."

"But I'm proud of our effort. You can't go anywhere without effort."

The passing game, ineffective a week ago for the Tigers, continued to be a problem area. Quarterback Jonathan Farve completed only 2 of 7 attempts for eight yards. Shabazz, who filled in at quarterback when Farve was injured for one play, completed his only attempt for five yards.

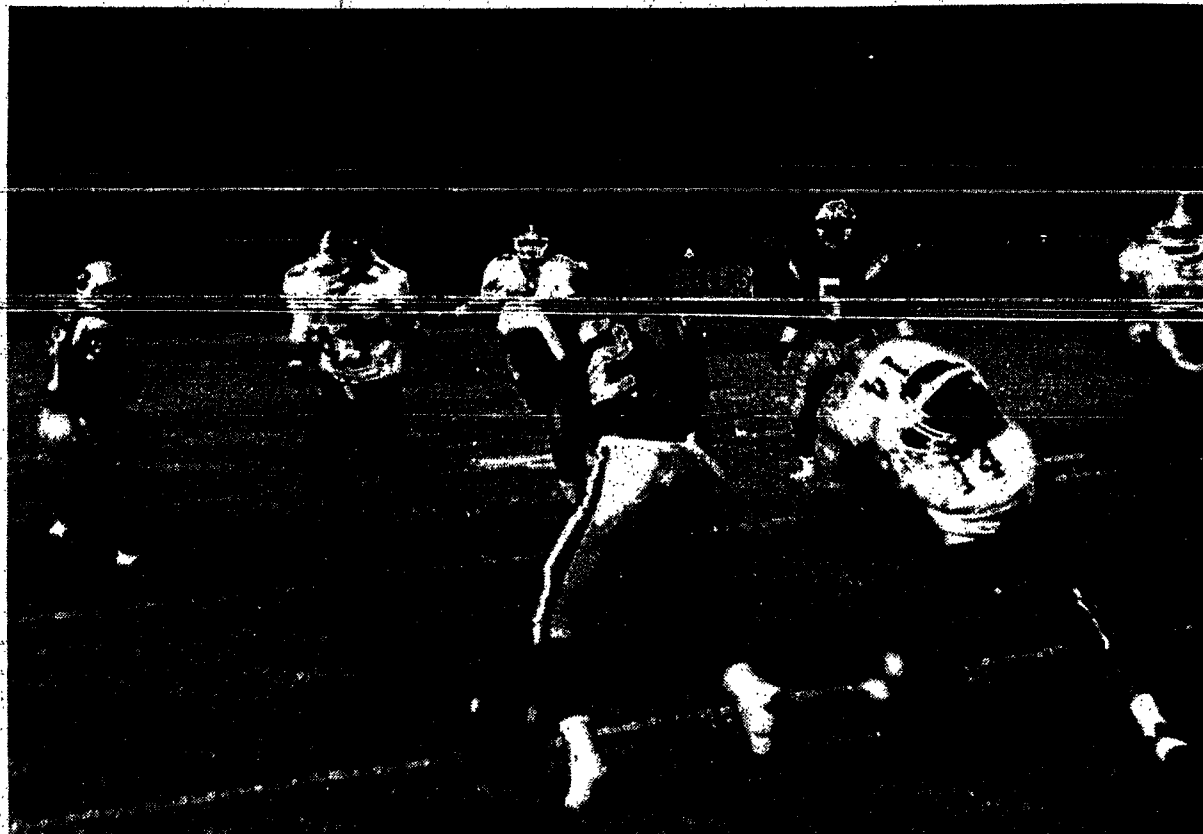

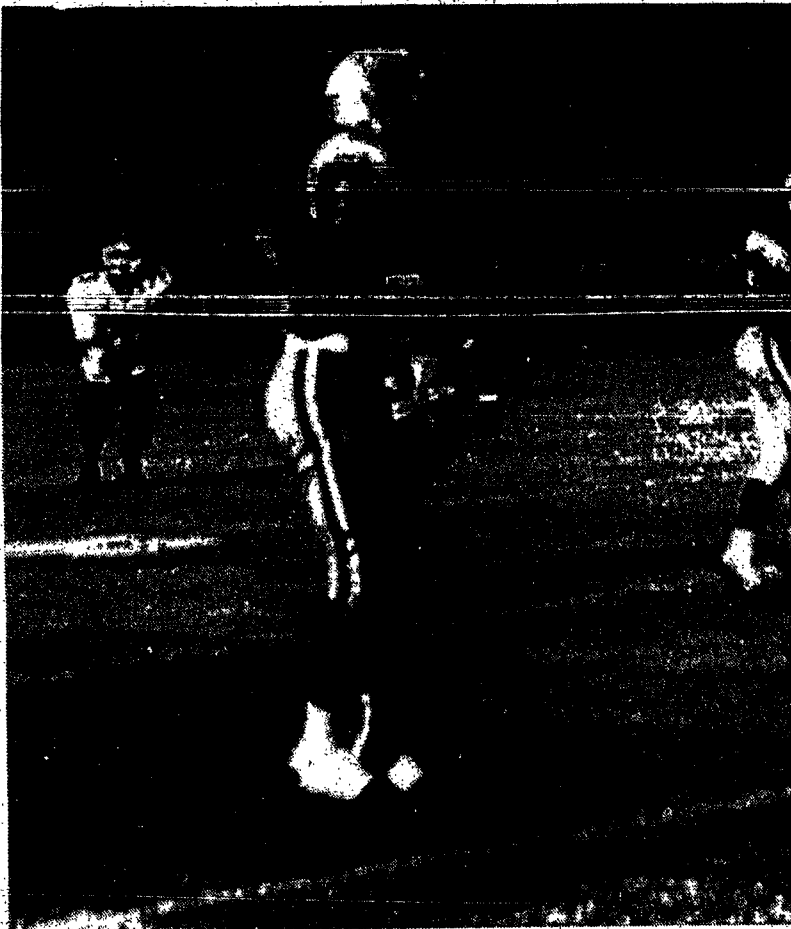

"Our passing game is not working well," Esslinger admitted. "I think maybe I've become too conservative. It's something we have to work on."

Michael Myrick led the Hornets with 112 yards on 11 carries. But it was Mike Mayfield who provided the early spark for East Central.

Myrick scored on an 18-yard run with 5:23 remaining in the first quarter to cap a short, 32-yard drive and give the Hornets a 7-0 lead. A bad snap on a punt had set up East Central at the Bay High 32.

Mayfield followed with a 20-yard touchdown reception from Bo Long early in the second quarter to give the Hornets a 14-0 lead with 8:10 remaining. The pass culminated a 71-yard, seven play drive, the big play being Myrick's 44-yard run that carried to the Tigers' 14.

Bay High answered with an impressive, 64-yard, 10-play drive that consumed nearly six minutes. The payoff came on

Reggie Williams (21) of Bay High hauls in a seven-yard pass (left) from quarterback Jonathan Farve. However, seconds later, Williams fumbled (above), and it was recovered by East Central at midfield. The Tigers lost three fumbles in their 28-6 loss. (Echo staff photos by Richard Meek)

Farve's quarterback sneak from a yard out.

The key play of the drive was Shabazz's two-yard run on a fourth and one from the Tiger 45.

"I hope we can use that drive against an outstanding team as a building block for the future," Esslinger said. "I want the team to have confidence in the things they are doing. We are making progress."

A muffed extra point attempt left the score at 14-6 with 2:14 remaining in the first half.

Although the Tigers were within striking distance at the half, the stats told a different story. Bay High had outgained the Tigers 180-50 in total yardage. The Tigers were held to minus six yards on their three possessions besides the scoring drive.

Following an excellent return by Ched Graham to start the second half, the Hornets marched 58 yards in five plays to take a 21-6 lead. The score came on Myrick's three-yard run barely three minutes into the third quarter.

East Central took advantage of a controversial Tiger fumble to march 36 yards on its next possession and take a 28-6 lead. Myrick scored from 11 yards out with 3:20 remaining in the third quarter.

A fumble at midfield early in the fourth quarter killed the Tigers' only drive into East Central territory in the second half.

Bay High has a bye next week and will travel to Greene County on Sept. 15.

The Tiger coaching staff com-

On the junior varsity level, James Benton was the player of the week while Ronald Brown was the junior high player of the week.

Hancock nips Long Beach to spoil 'Cats opener

BY DONNIE BLUNT

A great high school football game. That's what everybody got Friday night. Just a great, hard fought football game.

The Hancock Hawks visited the Long Beach Bearcats Friday night and came away with a tough 16-10 win to even their season record and spoil the Cats' season opener at Lance Lumpkin Stadium.

"This was just a hard nosed football game that we were fortunate to win," Hancock coach Rocky Gaudin said.

The Hawks' Carl Gipson took the ball on the opening kickoff at the Long Beach 14-yard line and returned the ball to the Cat's 24.

Hancock (1-1, 0-0) opened with runs by Darrell William and J.J. Hay for a first down and it looked like the Hawks were going to establish a dominating running game. But three procedure penalties put an end to the drive, as the Hawks couldn't recover from first and 20.

Long Beach (0-1, 0-0) took over at the Hawks 48-yard line after a 24-yard punt by Sterlin Kuhlmar. After an initial 7-yard gain by Tim Brown, the Cats fell victim to penalties, as a clip sent them back 10 yards where they faced a first and 22 instead of a second and three.

After a six-yard run by Brian Chappell and a two-yard pickup by Jimmy Glass, the Cats were forced to punt.

The Cats got a break on the punt, as Hay fumbled the punt from Palmer at the Hawks 12-yard line and Long Beach tight end Justin Amacker recovered the ball at the Hawk 19.

The Hancock defense stepped up, holding the Cats on three straight plays to force a Brian Palmer field goal attempt.

Palmer's 31-yard attempt was blocked by Hawk's line-backer Kuhlmar.

"That was one of the major turning points in our game," Gaudin said.

"When we gave them the ball back on our 19 (on the fumbled punt) we could have ended up in trouble, but the defense stepped up and saved us," said Gaudin.

The Hawk's finally got their offense going in the second, as they put together a 17-play scoring drive that featured three penalties and two big plays.

After holding penalty left the Hawk's with a third and 14, Peterson found tight end Eric Womack in the flat for a 19-yard gain and a first down.

Three plays later, a face mask penalty pinned the Hawks with a second and 19 situation. Peterson again found the open man, completing a 24-yard pass to Hay.

Four plays later, Peterson scrambled into the end-zone to cap the drive. Green converted on the point after attempt.

The Bearcats came right back, putting together a six-play scoring drive that featured senior fullback Chappell.

Chappell had 56 of his 80 first half yards on the drive, capped by a 47-yard run from scrimmage on third and two. Chappell led all rushing on the evening with 151 yards.

The score was tied at seven at the half.

The third quarter was much the same as the first, with both teams battling, with neither able to score.

Long Beach put together a long 14-play drive that culminated with a Palmer 34-yard field goal at 11:56 of the fourth.

But it was all Hawks after that, as they took the next Bearcat kickoff and put together a 13-play drive that resulted in a Green 25-yard field goal to tie the contest at 10 with 5:23 remaining in the game.

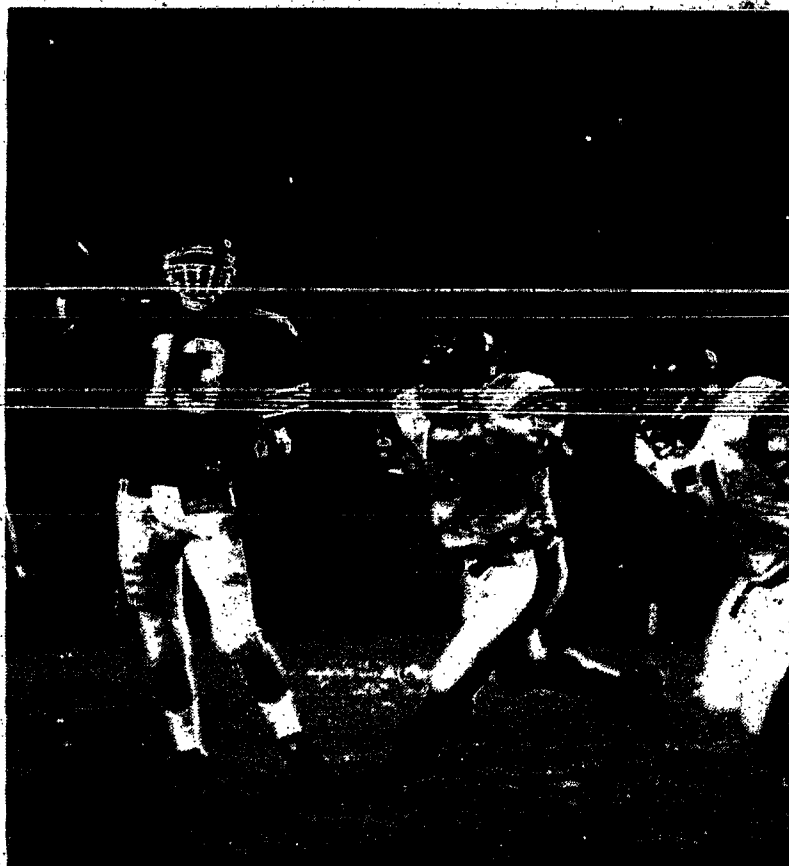

On the Cats' third play from scrimmage after the score, Hawks defensive back Roland Cuevas intercepted a Lance Allen pass at the Cats' 46-yard line.

The turned out to be the break the Hawks needed. Five plays later, Fountain burst into the endzone on a four yard dive to score the winning touchdown.

Undefeated St. Stanislaus routs Greene County

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II

The SSC Rock-a-chaws began their journey to Greene County for a date against the Wildcats in hyped-up fashion until a their bus broke down en route.

Undaunted, however, the Rocks made good on their bid to go 2-0 for the first time since 1991. The Rocks overpowered Greene County 33-14 on Friday in Leakesville. With the win, the Rocks have eclipsed their win total from the last three years combined and await their next opponent, undefeated Long Beach.

The Wildcats and the Rocks exchanged possessions in the first quarter to get the feel for each other. Both teams went into the game blind due to the fact that Greene County had an open date last week and the Rocks had no way to scout them.

However, after a long drive from the Rocks led by senior quarterback Corey Gex, the Rocks struck first. Gex hit wide-out Ty McMichael for a 12-yard TD strike. Casey Swanson missed the PAT attempt and the score was 6-0.

Greene County turned the ball over on downs just as the first quarter expired. The Rocks took over on the Wildcats' 36 yardline. Sophomore running-back Tyree Haynes cutback against the grain for a gain of eight yards. On the next play, Gex kept on an option for an 18-yard TD run with 11:15 to go in the first half. Gex accounted for 106 yards of total offense, rushing for two touchdowns and throwing for two more. The Rocks' two-point conversion attempt failed and the score remained 12-0.

Faced with a 12-point deficit, the Wildcats offense started to get some life. A Wildcat running back had three straight gains of five, six, and seven yards respectively. The third gain was probably the toughest gain of the year for him as senior Tee Bergeron laid a hit on the Wildcat that sent his helmet flying into the Rock bench.

The Wildcats responded with some stunning moves of their own as their fullback slashed his way for a 49-yard TD run with 8:54 to go in the first half. Greene County's two-point conversion attempt was no good and the score was 12-6.

The Rock offense was thwarted by the Wildcats as they took over from their own 22-yardline. The Wildcats were on the move and deep into Rock territory when senior defensive back Brad Cannon intercepted a Greene County pass and went 81 yards for the score with 2:45 to go in the first half. Casey Swanson's PAT was good and the Rocks led 19-6.

Brad Cannon had two interceptions on the night and has four on the year. The Rocks have eight interceptions in two games, with two returned for touchdowns.

The Rock defense held strong and got the ball back with 32 seconds to go in the half. Swanson attempted a 39-yard field goal with two seconds to go but missed wide right.

The Rocks came out on fire offensively to begin the second half. After two first down runs of nine and 23 yards by junior running back Corey Charles, Gex hit fullback Ben McDonal for an 11-yard gain and a first down that put the Rocks into field goal range. But Swanson's 34-yard field goal attempt was no good and the score remained 19-6.

The Rock defense came through and held the Wildcats on four downs. The Rocks marched down the field, controlling the game on the ground as Charles gained 12 yards for a first down. Gex pitched to McDonal for a 17-yard yard gain and first down. Two plays later, Gex hit Cannon in the endzone for a 17-yard TD strike with 2:40 to play in the third quarter. Swanson's PAT attempt was good, making the score 26-6.

The Rock defense was caught off guard on the Wildcats' next possession when the Wildcat quarterback hit his receiver for a 52-yard gain. After a minimal gain on the ground, the Wildcats scored on a 36-yard TD pass with 12 seconds to go in the third quarter. The two-point conversion attempt was good and the Rocks lead was cut to 26-14.

The Rocks fumbled the kickoff and the Wildcats recovered. However, sophomore defensive back Derek Bradley intercepted the Greene County quarterback on the first play of the possession. The Rocks could not do much and had to punt away to the Wildcats. The two teams traded possessions twice before Greene County started to roll on offense.

The Wildcats went to the air and but Cannon intercepted for the second time deep in Rock territory. Cannon returned it to the Wildcat 48-yardline but fumbled the ball back to the Wildcats, who advanced the fumble back to their original line of scrimmage.

On the next play, Gex's interception set up the Rocks at the Wildcat 48-yardline. The Rocks could not do much on offense and turned the ball over on downs.

The Rock defense led by Tee Bergeron and Geil Jacobs stopped the Wildcats and the Rocks got another shot at the endzone when the Wildcat punter bobbled the snap and was sacked at the Wildcat six-yardline.

Gex led the Rocks back onto the field and handed off to McDonal for a four-yard gain to the two. Gex called his own number on the next play and covered the distance for his second rushing score with 1:32 to go in the game. Swanson's PAT attempt was good making the final score 33-14.

Rock coach Mario Genna said, "This was a good win for us simply because we had a lot of distractions this week."

"We are just glad to get out of here with a win. Greene County is a good football team. Their kids played hard and they have a new coaching staff that will help the kids turn the corner."

offense opened up tonight. (Pass Christian) made us do things that hindered our offense but tonight we showed up."

"Gex did a good job out there. He was the leader we needed. Our offensive line did a much better job. Now we just have to keep it up. Our kicking game was not as effective as it was last week. However, the kids are seeing their improvement."

Genna summed up, "Next week is a big game for us against Long Beach. We play our first game at home and it is my first game at Rock stadium. I'm proud of our guys so far but I expect them to play at this level all the time. It should be a good game this week."

With the win, the Rocks improve to 2-0 on the season while Greene County falls to 0-1. The Rocks will entertain the Long Beach Bearcats at the Brother Philip Memorial Stadium, "in between the walls", in Bay St. Louis. Kickoff is set for 7:30 p.m.

Against Greene County, Gex rushed for 51 yards and 2 TD's while passing 4 for 12 for 56 yards and 2 TD's.

The Rock defense is allowing only seven points per game.

Inexperience costs Pass Christian in 12-7 loss

BY TRACI BONNEY

Remember the cartoon of the dog chewing on the mail carrier's behind?

Change the uniform to a pirate's costume, and you'll get an idea of how Friday night's Pass Christian-Vancleave game went.

The visiting Pirates held the Bulldogs scoreless until the third quarter, but the Bulldogs' excellent ball handling and more aggressive play finally put them in the end zone.

The third quarter started with the Bulldogs kicking to the Pirates. Pass quarterback/free safety Raynoid Hatchet received the kick, but was unable to get a good grip on the ball.

PRCC drops opener

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II

The Pearl River Community College Wildcats opened their 1995 football season with the Mississippi Delta Trojans. The Trojans defeated the Cats 34-28.

The Trojans got a 40 yard TD pass from Brantley Nichols to Anthony Dixon with 1:17 left in the game to seal the victory.

PRCC had an early 13-0 lead over the Trojans before their offense began to roll.

Antonio Carrillo nailed field goals from 23 and 30 yards while Jerel Posey rambled in from 1 yard out to make the 13-0 score.

In the second quarter, Anthony Dixon scored from 3

The play ended with the Pirates at their own 17-yard line for a first and 10.

Hatchet and running back Darrell Biggs teamed up on the next three ball carries, but gained only six yards before Biggs was forced to punt.

The running of Joseph Thrasher, Jeff White and Jeremy Lakes carried to the Pirate 23-yard line. Biggs apparently killed the drive with an interception but he was called for pass interference, giving the Bulldogs new life at the Pass 12.

One play later, Thrasher ran up the middle for the score. Glenn Emerson attempted the PAT, but the ball went wide left, making the score 6-0 with 5:58 yards away to put the Trojans on the board. Nichols passed 33 yards to Dixon for the Trojans second score of the quarter and to take the lead 14-13.

The Cats scored twice in the second quarter when Jerel Posey scored from 1 yard out again and recovered a fumble in the endzone to make the halftime score 28-14.

In the third period, 270 pound fullback Jerry Smith of Mississippi Delta scored twice from 1 yard out while Brad Cummins nailed both PATs to tie the score.

The Pirates kept the ball for the rest of the quarter, but were unable to score. They relinquished possession on downs with 16 seconds left in the period.

Biggs and Hatchet did most of the running, with Biggs carrying on the run that moved the Pirates from their own 39 to midfield.

The turnover occurred on a fourth-and-four situation at the Bulldog 17. Hatchet kept and moved right, but Bulldogs Jesse Hooker and Emerson stopped him.

The Bulldogs started the fourth quarter at their own 17. Thrasher ran up the middle to the Bulldog 38 to gain the first down. White gained a yard on a keeper, then Thrasher snapped up four more yards to make it third and four.

White then pitched to Lakes, who carried deep into Pirate territory but a holding penalty pushed Vancleave back to its 48.

Josh Barton took over. Running slightly left and then up the middle, he cut through everyone for a 52-yard scoring run.

White kept on the two-point conversion attempt that followed, but was stopped short of the goal line. With 10:08 left in the game, the score was 12-0.

A fumble on the first play of the Pirates' ensuing drive gave possession back to Vancleave on the Pirate 40.

White threw to Sam Forehand, but the pass fell incomplete, and a 15-yard penalty put the Bulldogs back on their own 45.

Thrasher gained three on the next carry, with Pirate Michael Necaise stopping him. Thrasher took off again, getting to the Pirate 40 before Eddie Riley and Kevin Hall tackled him.

With the Bulldogs in a third-and-10 situation, White passed to Lakes but it went for a four-yard loss, forcing a Vancleave punt.

The Pirates gained only a yard during the drive, with two incomplete passes forcing a punt.

Lakes ran on the next two carries, gaining three on the first play and 17 on the second. His run was stopped at the Pirate 23 when he fumbled and Pirate Riley recovered.

Hatchet kept to gain six yards, then attempted a pass to Nick Ishee, which fell incomplete. His next attempt, a screen pass to Henderson, hit the mark. Henderson moved the Pirates to the Bulldog 47.

Hatchet passed again, this time to Wayne Dedaux, who made it to the five-yard line.

Henderson scored on the next play, a run up the middle; Biggs kicked the PAT. With 4:42 left in the game, the score was 12-7.

The Bulldogs dominated for the rest of the game. Although they were unable to score again, they maintained possession until the last 21 seconds of game time. The Pirates managed to squeeze out one play, but it was executed as the final horn sounded.

For the Pirates, Biggs carried for 50 yards; total yardage for the team was 209.

The Bulldogs rushed for 283 yards. Leading rushers were Thrasher with 133 yards and Lakes with 84.

Pass Christian coach Joseph Brown cited lack of maturity and experience as the main reasons for the loss.

"We're too young; we're not making the adjustments we need to make; and we're not playing smart," he stated.

He said that lack of experience was also why he didn't make many substitutions.

"We're gonna work on basics next week," Brown added. "We have to get these guys ready for the next game, against St. John."

The Pirates are 0-2, 0-1 in District 8-3A.

Financial Focus

Goals and Objectives

ARTICLE VI

Let's wind up our discussion of investment goals by considering what emphasis should be placed on the advice of your broker, financial planner, consultant or whomever you look to with some degree of confidence.

With most people, next to their faith in God, their family and their health, the most important thing to them is their finances. Finances are definitely an important part of our lives.

Doesn't it make sense, then, to be as selective in accepting advice on your investments as you'd be with other important decisions in your life? Yet, so many of us are "sold" an investment without understanding exactly what it is, its risk or its return. We take the word of someone that it's a good investment — that it'll make money. So, we invest.

Regardless of whom we choose as an adviser, that individual should meet certain requirements. First of all, are we reasonably assured that he or she is honest and has our best interest at heart? Has he or she seriously attempted to determine what we want our investment to achieve or has our adviser tried to sell us a bill of goods? What are his or her credentials?

Any professional is delighted to discuss educational background, graduate study, specialized training and registration. Ask for references. Investigate your financial adviser as you would investigate your physician or attorney. It'll be time well spent.

Once you've established confidence, be candid. Remember, the information you give is held in absolute confidence.

In summary, when selecting an investment — for safety, income or growth — you must seriously weigh your personality, current position in life, future needs and the advice of a professional. Plan it out!

Labor Day: What today's youths need to succeed

As the country celebrates Labor Day, many older Americans reflect on what was needed to succeed in the labor force when they were young. For many, it was a strong back, determination and a skill. For today's non-college bound youths, particularly disadvantaged youths, a set of skills are needed to secure and keep a job.

A recent national survey reported that Americans consider that young adults at risk of joblessness and poverty should be a higher national priority. These results come in the wake of the largest cut in job training and education programs for such a population in the last decade.

Eighty-five percent of the respondents to the survey conducted by Covenant House, an independent research organization, cited job training, education and job placement at the top of list of services needed to help young people succeed in today's workplace.

According to David Westbrook, center director of the Mississippi Job Corps Center, today's young at-risk youth need comprehensive services to bolster overall employability.

"We focus on three building blocks that if attained, will serve our graduates well for a lifetime," said Westbrook.

"Specifically we help our young people to focus on education, training and social skills. If they can master those areas and continue to set goals, they will manage well in the work force."

The Mississippi Job Corps Center, Crystal Springs, has openings for young adults interested in preparing for the future. Young people ages 16-24, who want to prepare themselves for a good job by increasing their educational level and learning a skill, are encouraged to enroll now. While students are learning, they are earning monthly allowances to pay for their personal needs.

The Mississippi Job Corps Center is a residential training and educational facility which can house up to 405 students. It is operated by Res-Care Inc. for the U.S. Department of Labor. Training is conducted in a campus-friendly environment.

"A strict policy of zero tolerance is in effect, meaning that drugs/alcohol and disruptive behavior will not be tolerated," Westbrook said. High school graduates and non-graduates may apply. Selected applicants may enter the program now.

Training opportunities are currently available in clerical, retail sales, carpentry, landscaping, plumbing, building and apartment maintenance, electrical, welding, nursing assistant, culinary arts (food service) and brick masonry.

Interested young adults may call toll free, Monday through Friday between the hours of 7:45 a.m. and 5 p.m. and ask for Gail Smith or Debbie Zeigler, 1-800-390-7596, ext. 237.

Women investors no longer a rarity

In the traditional household 50 years ago, the husband went off to work and earned the money, while the wife looked after the children and the house. But times have changed dramatically, and more women than ever find themselves in charge of their personal or their family's finances.

Just look at some of the statistics: There are more than 58 million women in the U.S. workforce. More than 40 percent of all wealthy Americans are women. Women's earnings accounted for 36 percent of the national income. About 90 percent of all women will become wholly responsible for their finances at some point in their lifetime. Women live an average of seven years longer than men. And women make up 39 percent of the country's shareholders.

However, women on average earn less than men holding similar positions. So does this mean women have to be better investors than their male counterparts? It depends on your perspective. What are some of the keys for beginning women investors? Here are some suggestions:

* Educate yourself. Take the time to read various financial publications and newspapers that cover a variety of investment topics. Also, watch for investment seminars targeted specifically to women.

It is not necessary for you to know as much as a professional investment broker, but it certainly helps to have a general understanding of investment choices available to you.

* Assess your financial goals. If you are investing for yourself, you may have a different approach than if you are investing for your family. Determine the amount of money you will need for things such as retirement savings, your children's education, a down payment on a house, etc.

Give your broker a time horizon of when you would like to accomplish these goals. These elements will play major roles in the development of your investment portfolio.

* Determine your risk suitability. This means accepting the possibility that the results of your investments may deviate from your expectations. For example, if you're looking for significant returns in a very short time frame, you will have to assume a higher degree of risk.

Always keep in mind your investment parameters, such as financial objectives, age, current and anticipated earning power and net worth. Assessing your risk tolerance helps you choose the best types of investments to meet your objectives without jeopardizing your financial situation.

* Keep enough "liquid" assets available. "Liquid" assets mean those that you can quickly turn into cash, such as checking accounts, savings accounts or money market funds. For emergency purposes, many financial planners suggest that you keep enough assets to cover about three months' worth of expenses.

* Follow your investments. Make sure you talk with your broker periodically to review your investments' progress. You can also check in the business/financial section of your local newspaper to get the latest prices from the various financial markets.

Many brokers feel that women investors in general are better than men investors because they show more patience and don't react to short-term market shifts.

Just remember to do your homework, focus on the long-term and consult a professional investment broker, who can help you outline an investment strategy that best suits your financial objectives. After all, an investment's results are based on its performance, not the gender of its owner.

change for service. Tie-ins will be mandatory.

With 20 percent of the project covered by federal grants, the district would provide each home with a grinder pump and tank that would accept sewage, sending it to a new district treatment facility and lagoon nearby.

Homeowners would have to pay to have existing septic tanks filled in, as well as the cost of running a line from their homes to the district's pump system at the street.

While some said the $35-per-month charge would be out of range for poor or elderly residents on fixed income, Wastewater District supervisor Pamela Gauthreaux said the district works with low-income customers to arrange workable payment schedules.

"Well, they might not be able to afford nothing," said one resident.

Others were less upset about the cost and excited about the prospect of cleaning up Pearl-rington. "We have sewage running directly into ditches," one woman said, "and there's no mosquito control. Mosquitoes carry dysentery and malaria. I'm concerned about that."

The sanitation aspect of the existing situation was emphasized by Barbara Shed, an environmentalist with the State Board of Health who works in this area. "You are just as aware of the problem as I am," said Shed. "Think first of all for your health and sanitation."

Residents also should consider how the project will impact property values, she said. As it stands, no federally-insured institution will offer mortgage loans to buy properties without a sewer system that's approved by state health officials. And that excludes almost every home in the areas at issue.

Terming the proposed project a "wonderful thing," Shed asked the residents to consider, "Can we refuse it? Can we not want it?"

District Chairman Sid Davis told the audience he knows first-hand what will happen to the quality of water once the project is in place. Seven years after his home was connected to a public line, he said, the waterways have evolved from a smelly, unsanitary nuisance to a pleasant, clean habitat for edible fish and crabs.

"Everybody out here has a septic tank, and it don't work," said one resident.

Others complained that they've sought for a year to have county workers dig a ditch that would accommodate their wastewater. One asked Shed why the health department didn't provide the ditch-cleaning service they seek.

"I don't dig ditches," Shed replied.

Gauthreaux emphasized that Pearl-rington would have to accept a public sewer system sooner or later, under federal mandates that forbid wastewater runoff into waterways.

"Well, do it," said one man. "I'm tired of this mess."

Gauthreaux said the district would hold another meeting in Pearl-rington soon, hopefully attracting more residents.

Meanwhile, consultants have begun household surveys in Shoreline Park, similar to surveys that will be done in Pearl-rington. Officials have to gather statistical data on family income, age and other demographic factors, to support their application for Farmer's Home help.

As it stands, the area qualifies for a 55 percent federal grant for sewerage. If the surveys produce data to support the low-income nature of many of the residents in the area, the grant can be escalated to a maximum of 75 percent.

The remainder of the project cost would be covered by a low-interest loan from Farmer's Home.

Gauthreaux and project engineer Duke Levy said the district has had extensive talks with federal officials concerning the grant possibilities, and are poised to receive approval as soon as the application is filed.

Farmers Home officials, said Levy, have expressed enthusiasm for the project. "They're, like, 'come on.' Things look good."

District officials are proceeding with steps to expand their boundaries to cover the entire area south of Interstate 10. After petitioning the Board of Supervisors to expand the district, two public hearings -- and possibly an election -- will be held on that issue.

PUBLIC NOTICE

The regular monthly meeting of the Hancock County School Board has been changed from Monday, September 4, 1995 and will be held on Tuesday, September 5, 1995 beginning at 6:30 p.m. in the Administrative Offices located at 451-A Highway 90, Waveland, MS.

days of adoption" to publish the resolution three times within a 30-day period, Gex said.

He said Scaffide "also failed to advise you that any person objecting to the code may do so within 60 days after...passage."

"And, if 10 percent or more of the qualified electors live in the affected unincorporated areas of the county, object, then it shall be inoperable." The exception would apply if there were a public health threat.

Gex added the current law relative to enforcement of building and plumbing codes (Sec.19-5-9) also states, "If the voters at an election vote against the code, then it cannot be enforced and a new election cannot be had until at least two years thereafter."

Gex blamed the legislature for failing to reenact septic tank regulations, but he said voters in unincorporated areas have historically opposed regulation.

He pointed out that Jerry Ladner was elected supervisor in 1972 "and Mr. Ladner's main platform was against the building code."

Gex also cited the November elections of 1986 when voters defeated a building code by a margin of 2,367 to 1,375.

Gex said a wastewater district was developed by supervisors as early as 1986, and received funding in 1987. He said supervisors should be given the credit for central sewer improvements made to 920 homes in Jourdan River Isles, Shoreline Estates and Shoreline Park and other subdivisions on the Jourdan River side of Highway 603.

Gex said the public should also know that supervisors:

--Are presently seeking $377,151 for funding the Southern Regional Treatment Plant and assistance to the Hancock County Wastewater District #1.

--Have been to Jackson on numerous occasions to meet with the Department of Environment Quality, the Board of Health and other agencies "seeking funds and/or approval of alternate systems that can be installed by property owners at a reasonable cost."

Gex also said the county has performed studies for the Lakeshore/Clermont Harbor area, but without federal or state grants "the expense to individuals would be astronomical."

He said the county is also seeking $10-million in grant funds to complete sewerage of the area South of Bayou LaCroix to the Waveland and Bay St. Louis limits and for the complete sewerage of the Pearl-rington area.

"The county, in my opinion, has exerted every effort to comply with all of the requirements of the DEQ, EPA and Bureau of Pollution Control..." and supervisors are making every effort to assist the people with as little cost as possible."

Gex said he felt recent atticles in the Echo made it appear that supervisors have done nothing to resolve the issue.

Gex didn't read the entire letter, but passed copies on to supervisors. District 2 Supervisor Alton Kellar said he would sign it if Gex wanted to send it to the Echo editor.

Michael Ladner, president of the Board and District 5 Supervisor said, "The Echo ought to know what they're talking about before they write stories with half the facts."

employees are volunteering their time, as well as many other people from throughout the county," he added. "We are asking people to give us a call."

The telethon, celebrating its 30th anniversary nationally, has been active in the county through the Waveland Civic Association for nearly 25 years, Smolensky said, originating in a "little room in Waveland City Hall."

Last year, Hancock County citizens donated $7,400 during the telethon.

Smolensky said members of the Waveland Fire Department and Civic Association will be collecting money on Highway 90 on Labor Day.

Smolensky, who has no budget to work with, said the telethon has survived so long locally "with the help of local business people and a lot of volunteers who gave up their time. Nothing could have been done without them."

He emphasized the money raised remained in the local area.

MDA Mississippi, located in Jackson, serves 64 Mississippi counties. Adults and children affected by any of 40 neuromuscular diseases, and their families, benefit from an array of services, research and other programs.

An MDA clinic is located at Memorial Hospital in Gulfport.

The telethon will be aired Sept. 3-4, on WLOX Television from 10:30 p.m.-6 p.m.

World famous replica depicts White House

A "gift to America" has come to Central Florida. John and Jan Zweifel's White House miniature (one inch to one foot) replica, hailed by presidents, first ladies, royalty and 44 million members of the public, now has its home base in Clermont, Florida. This opportunity marks the first occasion in over 10 years for Central Florida viewing. The privileged peek into the rooms and grounds of 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue is on display here after extensive Smithsonian and other national and international tours; a recent visit to Japan averaged 28,700 viewers per day.

From the Jacqueline Kennedy Garden, to the Lincoln Bedroom, to the Oval Office, the White House in Miniature impresses the viewer on two levels; for the beauty of the White House itself, and for the richness of detail that the Zweifels have so faithfully and lovingly captured. Tiny, working televisions, hand-carved chairs and tables, crystal chandeliers, portraits exactly like those that grace the White House's walls, and miniature carpets that reproduce the originals stitch by stitch - every detail exhibits a craftsmanship of exceptional quality, as well as a tribute to the White House's unique charm and all that it represents. Considered one of the world's greatest miniature houses, John and Jan Zweifel's fascinating work has been featured many times over the years on NBC's Today Show, Life Magazine and numerous other national media concerns.

The House of Presidents at 123 N. Highway 27 in Clermont, also houses other White House exhibits, lifelike wax presidential figures, working craftspeople and an entire presidential gallery of memorabilia. The museum, open since 1962, was entirely renovated in December 1994 under new ownership.

Adult Admission is $8.95, children 4-11 are $4.95 and children three and under are free. The operating hours are from 9:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily, and the recommended visit is from one to three hours. The museum is located near the corner of Highways 27 and 50, next to the Citrus Tower.

Students participate in marine science program

Students from 44 colleges and universities in 17 states participated in the 1995 summer marine science field study program at the Gulf Coast Research Laboratory in Ocean Springs.

GCRL, administered by the University of Southern Mississippi, offers a unique opportunity for undergraduate and graduate students to enhance classroom experiences through field studies of plants and animals in their natural habitats, as well as physical and chemical processes of marine and coastal environments.

This summer's classes included oceanography, marine phyecology, marine invertebrate zoology, marine ecology, marine chemistry, marine biology, marine ichthyology, coastal ecology for teachers, marine mammals, marine aquaculture and fauna and faunistic ecology of salt marshes, seagrasses and sand beaches.

In addition to these regular courses, 16 elementary and middle school educators participated in Operation Pathfinder, a two-week inservice program for teachers from predominantly minority schools.

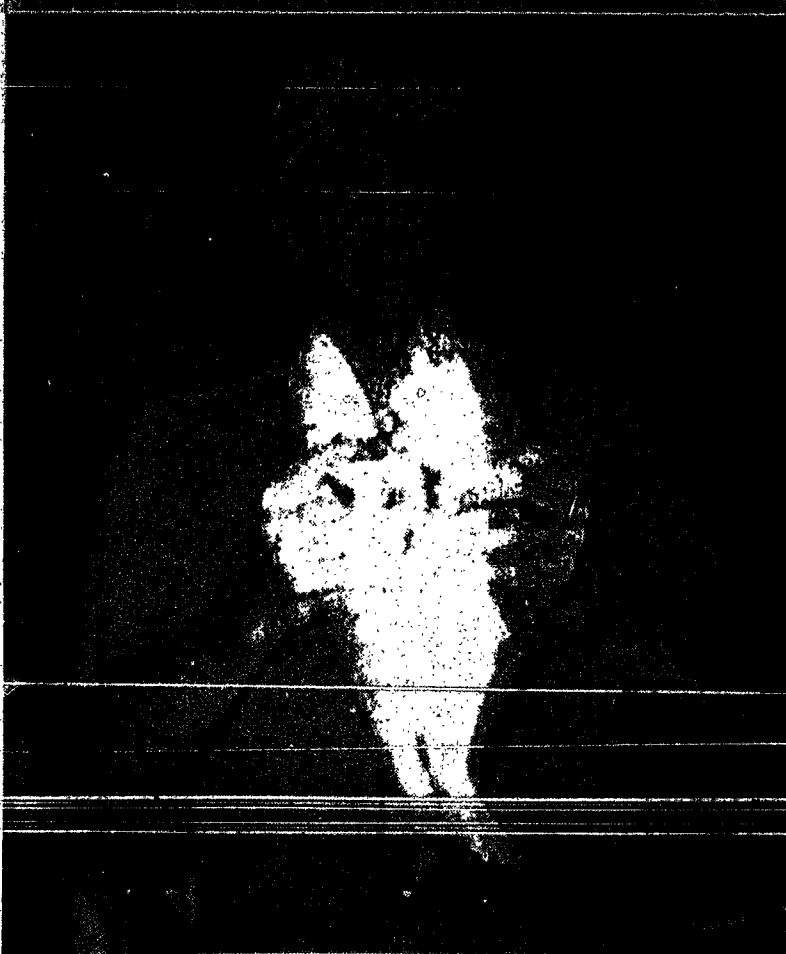

Summer faculty included Dr. Charles K. Eleuterius, Dr. Cynthia A. Moncreiff, Dr. Julia S. Lytle, Dr. Thomas F. Lytle, Dr. Sharon H. Walker, Dr. Mark S. Peterson, Dr. Richard W. Heard, Dr. Jeffrey M. Lotz, and John T. Ogil from GCRL; Dr. Ed Williams from Delta State University; Dr. Katherine McGraw from Radford University in Virginia; Dr. John Smith from the University of Tampa; Dr. Shelia A. Brown from Mississippi Gulf Coast Community College and Dr. Keith Mullin from the National Marine Fisheries Service, Pascagoula.

GCRL is affiliated with 61 colleges and universities in 18 states. The summer program enables students to study at the laboratory and transfer credit to their home institutions.

Several local graduate and undergraduate students participated in this summer's program at GCRL.

Local University of Southern Mississippi students included Hale Switzer of Pass Christian; Robbie Bourgeois of Waveland and Judith Bruno of Bay St. Louis.

Students interested in the GCRL summer marine science field study program may contact Dr. Charles K. Eleuterius, academic coordinator, at (601) 872-4201.

Feds, state address dove baiting

State and federal wildlife authorities have reached a consensus on dove baiting in the Southeast, according to the Department of Wildlife, Fisheries and Parks.

The mourning dove is the most hunted and harvested migratory game bird in North America. Hunting doves over baited fields has long been a problem for hunters and wildlife enforcement authorities.

At a recent meeting in Frankfort, Ky., state and federal conservation enforcement authorities have agreed that doves may be hunted over plantings made for wildlife food plots or erosion control.

"These plantings must be carried out in a good faith manner, and crops must be planted according to normal agricultural farming operations or procedures," said Randall Miller, chief of enforcement for the Department of Wildlife, Fisheries and Parks.

"Planting crops for erosion control or wildlife food plots must follow the published recommendations for application rates, distribution methods and seed types for crops normally grown for farming purposes," Miller said.

Miller went on to say there is nothing wrong with hunting doves over agricultural fields where grain is scattered as a result of normal agricultural planting or harvesting.

"As an example of proper crop manipulation, hunters can legally hunt doves over fields such as sunflowers or corn when these crops have been planted and then bushhogged in the field or left standing," Miller said.

"What often happens is that hunters get in trouble when crops such as corn or sunflowers have been harvested, and the grain is brought back and redistributed over the field. This is not a normal agricultural procedure."

Miller emphasized that any planting must be done in a way that uses normal planting methods in an area to produce an agricultural crop.

"We're fortunate that most farmers, landowners and hunters understand this, and we have no trouble with the vast majority of those wanting to hunt doves legally. It's those few who want to bend the rules and lure birds in over baited fields that get them and innocent hunters in trouble," Miller said.

Miller reminded hunters that it is their responsibility to make sure the field they hunt doves over is not baited.

Brian DiBenedetto

DiBenedetto sets motorcross circuit on fire at age 8

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II

Brian DiBenedetto, of Bay St. Louis, has been setting the motorcross circuit on fire, recently. He has placed numerous times and won two races since January 1995. The intriguing aspect of it all is that he is only eight years old!

Brian had open heart surgery when he was born, so he had some adversity to overcome. His cardiologist said he would be able to live a normal life. Brian has tried karate, soccer, and baseball; however, he has found true enjoyment with motorcross.

His mother, Margie, says, "He just loves to ride. He comes home from school and hits the trails and woods behind our house sometimes till dark."

Brian has been racing since January and has won two first place trophies and placed in numerous other races. Last week he raced in Florida and will be racing in Gulfport this week. Next week he plans another trip to Florida.

He is the only rider around at his age. The closest person his age who rides is in Hattiesburg. Brian said, "I like riding because you jump over mud and hills and go very fast. It is really fun."

His mother stated that they will get to the track the morning before the race and pay to practice on the track. This is to let Brian get used to the track before he races.

His mother continues, "This has been a love for him since he tried it. This sport has built muscle for him and is good exercise. It is well padded so he is pretty safe."

Brian's immediate plan is to qualify for the Supercross Championships in Nashville next year.

Deer limit changed for some

When Mississippi deer hunters go to the woods this fall, they will have some of the most liberal antlerless limits in recent years, according to the Department of Wildlife, Fisheries and Parks.

In addition, certain landowners and hunting clubs will have even more liberal season limits on antlerless deer.

"The Commission on Wildlife, Fisheries and Parks is allowing those participating in the Deer Management Assistance Program (DMAP) and the Fee-based Management Assistance Program (FEMAP) to exceed the season limit on antlerless deer," said Bill Thomason, chief of game.

"Individuals participating in one of the above programs who harvest antlerless deer in Mississippi that exceed the state bag limit must be tagged with a DMAP or FEMAP tag."

Thomason explained that this is an effort to assist private landowners and hunting clubs on the DMAP or FEMAP programs to harvest sufficient antlerless deer to meet deer management objectives.

"In past years, the antlerless bag limit has been somewhat restrictive and has kept some clubs from harvesting the number of antlerless deer recommended in their management plan," Thomason said.

Mississippi deer hunters should remember that only antlered bucks with four points or greater are legal without exception throughout the entire deer hunting season.

Mississippi's either sex archery season opens Oct. 1 and closes Nov. 17.

The first gun season with dogs for deer opens Nov. 18 and closes Dec. 1. Either sex hunting during this time is permitted only on private lands.

Hunting either sex deer with primitive weapons begins Dec. 2 and ends Dec. 15.

The second gun season without dogs for deer opens Dec. 16 and extends through Dec. 23. Either sex hunting during this time is permitted only on private lands.

The last gun season with dogs for deer begins Dec. 24 and ends Jan. 17, 1996. The final either sex archery season opens Jan. 18 and closes Jan. 31, 1996.

Women play vital role in WWII at work and home

Women's contributions and ways of coping will be among the topics discussed during "World War II and The American South: The War that Drove Old Dixie Down?" Oct. 5-7 at the University of Southern Mississippi.

"Southern Women in a World at War," one portion of the three-day kaleidoscope of topics related to World War II and the culture created in its aftermath, will feature comments by Dr. Judy Barrett Litoff, professor of history at Bryant College in Smithfield, R.I., and Dr. Margaret Wheeler, USM associate professor of history. Both are recognized scholars on women's history.

Litoff, author of Dear Boy: World War II Letters from a Woman Back Home, and We're in This War Too: World War II Letters from American Women in Uniform, said when American men went marching off to war in Europe and the Pacific, American women attacked new tasks back home.

"The letters from ordinary women during World War II indicate a number of things," said Litoff, who has spent the last decade soliciting, collecting and studying more than 30,000 letters to GIs from the women back home.

"Women became very independent, self-sufficient and assertive because of the roles they took on during the war. In the context of today, their attitudes may seem almost mundane, but in the '40s, it was very important."

Women embraced single parenting duties in addition to working outside the home, Litoff said. At the same time, women were largely responsible for some of the more creative ways of promoting the war effort statewide, she said. They spent their days at factories making ammunition and their nights doing whatever volunteer efforts were necessary to keep public opinion favoring the war, Litoff said.

Following the war, men returned to the United States and to the jobs women held during the war years. Women had contributed well to the emergency situation that existed during wartime, but it was time for these women who did work to take traditionally female positions and stay away from heavy industry, said Wheeler, author of New Women of the New South: The Leaders of the Woman Suffrage Movement in the Southern States, published by Oxford University Press in 1993.

Working in factories during World War II "was considered a glamorous, fun thing to do; a self-sacrifice to help your man," Wheeler said. During the 1950s, "public opinion demanded women not work outside the home except in more traditional roles," Wheeler said. Because of the post-World War II baby boom, the GI bill and isolation following the war, women were needed in the workforce to teach and to bring home additional income, Wheeler said.

"During the war, women were encouraged to get into the work force. After the war, they were discouraged from being part of the work force. But by the time, need in many cases dictated the fact (many women) had to stay in the work force," Wheeler said.

The October symposium is an effort to look at cultural and other factors affected by World War II that have resulted in life in the South in modern times.

"World War II and The American South: The War that Drove Old Dixie Down?" is a project spearheaded by Dr. Neil McMillen, a history professor at USM.

McMillen is presenting the symposium as part of his ongoing study that earned him the Charles W. Mooreman Alumni Distinguished Professorship in the Humanities at USM in 1993.

The symposium, funded by the National Endowment for the Humanities and the Hardin Foundation, is free and open to the public. For more information or to register, contact USM Continuing Education at Box 5136, Hattiesburg, MS 39406-5136. (601) 266-4186.

Richard Wright — Black Boy

When asked in 1945 why he wrote Black Boy, a harrowing account of his Southern childhood, Richard Wright replied that he wanted to "give my tongue to voiceless Negro boys." To mark the 50th anniversary of the publication of this iconoclastic autobiography, the Emmy Award-winning ETV production Richard Wright — Black Boy makes its national PBS debut Monday, Sept. 4 at 9 p.m. on the 57th anniversary of Richard Wright's birth.

This in-depth look at an African-American writer who changed the face of American literature intertwines dramatic excerpts from Wright's own work with historical footage and recollections from his daughter Julia, friends, associates and fellow writers such as Ralph Ellison and Margaret Walker Alexander.

Richard Wright — Black Boy, produced, directed and written by Emmy Award-winner Madison Davis Lacy, recognizes one of America's most influential writers and demonstrates his lifelong belief that "words can be weapons against injustice."

Term Limits hearings

The Secretary of State's office announces a series of public hearings to discuss the proposed initiative on term limits for public officials.

Locally a hearing will be conducted Thursday, September 28, at University of Southern Mississippi Gulf Park, Long Beach, Hardy Hall.

The hearing begins at 7 p.m. and concludes at 9 p.m.

All hearings are being conducted by the Secretary of State's office and moderated by the Mississippi Humanities Council.

"We are very pleased to enlist the help of the Humanities Council," said Assistant Secretary of State Robert Walker.

"Throughout this process, we have sought to promote public awareness and remain fair and impartial on the issue. The Humanities Council holds the highest standards of integrity, and we look forward to working with them."

The charter of the Humanities Council describes the group as a "private and nonpolitical organization" created to promote "public forums for debate on significant issues facing our society."

"The term limits initiative is a perfect example of an important public issue deserving a public hearing," said Dr. Cora Norman, executive director of the Humanities Council. "Our goal is to allow all Mississippians an opportunity to speak their minds."

The chairman of the Humanities Council, Dr. Leslie McLeMore, will moderate the hearings. Dr. McLeMore is a professor of political science at Jackson State University. In addition, Dr. David Sansing, professor emeritus of history at the University of Mississippi, will coordinate an historical overview of term limits in Mississippi and the nation.

WW II turning point for higher education

World War II touched higher education from one end of campus to another and created opportunities not dreamed of a decade earlier, a leading education historian says.

Dr. Clarence Mohr — associate professor of history at Tulane University, whose specialty areas include race relations in the American South and the history of education — said World War II gave new meaning to the word "change" at colleges and universities.

During the war years, he said, campuses became the center of research that produced products and technology that would help the war effort. After the war, the GI bill sent veterans of all ages and races flocking to campuses as well, forcing a new look at everything from physical size to curriculum offerings, he added.

"I think it's possible to say that what developed after 1945 is equivalent to a reconfiguration of higher education in the South," said Mohr.

Mohr joins University of Southern Mississippi President Dr. Aubrey K. Lucas for a discussion of the effect of World War II on higher education in the South as part of "World War II and The American South: The War That Drove Old Dixie Down?" a special symposium planned Oct. 5-7 at USM.

The three-day symposium will offer views on a wide range of topics related to the war and its results on the life and culture of the American South.

Southern colleges and universities weren't the top research facilities during the war — but following the war, efforts were made to change, Mohr said.

In addition to expanding the research and physical capacities of higher education institutions, veterans brought home a "broader world view" and "an appreciation and an understanding of different cultures and different people," said Lucas, who will facilitate Mohr's talk during the symposium.

"Many military personnel during World War II lived and worked for the first time with people of other races since the armed forces were one of the first segments of American society to be officially desegregated," Lucas said. "Those experiences, perhaps, made it easier for former military personnel to accept a more integrated society that was to follow after the war."

Lucas also cited World War II as the beginning point for a trend still evident on college and university campuses: "The older, non-traditional student became commonplace... higher education was changed forever."

Mohr said the war also enabled some Southern colleges and universities to attempt to de-emphasize the role and significance of athletic programs. And growing demand for different types of educational programs gave birth to the junior college system, which experienced "an astonishing growth rate in the South" although it originated in California, Mohr said.

"World War II and The American South: The War That Drove Old Dixie Down?" was organized by USM History Professor Dr. Neil McMillen as part of his ongoing study that earned him the Charles W. Moorman Alumni Distinguished Professorship in the Humanities at USM in 1993.

The symposium is funded by the National Endowment for the Humanities. McMillen also won the prestigious Bancroft Prize in American History in 1990 for his book, Dark Journey: Black Mississippians in the Age of Jim Crow.

The fall symposium is free and open to the public. Participants may attend any or all of the symposium but advanced registration is requested to ensure adequate seating. Sessions are scheduled on the USM campus and at the N. R. Burger Center in Hattiesburg.

For information or to register, contact USM Continuing Education at Box 5136, Hattiesburg, MS 39406-5136, (601) 266-4186.

AAA urges drivers to be extra alert

AAA Mississippi urges drivers to be extra alert this time of year. School is open again, and it's an exciting time for children, especially youngsters attending school for the first time. Unfortunately, it also means that young, inexperienced pedestrians and bicyclists are in the traffic mix, where they are more likely to be struck by cars.

Parents are often misinformed about the likely sources of danger to their children. A recent study indicated that 80 percent of parents believe kidnapping and drugs are the leading causes of harm to children. In actuality, these two represent less than 3 percent of the dangers youngsters face. The harsh reality is that approximately 41,000 child pedestrians and bicyclists under the age of 15 are injured or killed by motor vehicles each year. Many of these children suffer permanent disabilities as a result of their injuries.

Even if parents perceive traffic as a high risk, they often do not know what to teach or falsely assume someone else is teaching traffic safety. In the state that conducted this study, the average child receives about $1 worth of traffic safety skills education between birth and age 15 versus $45,000 in basic schooling.

Some youngsters, especially those venturing away from home for the first time, may never have learned traffic safety. Others may have forgotten over the summer. Thus drivers need to be cautious, especially around schools, bus stops and areas where children walk to school.

"Youngsters in the lower grades are especially at risk," said Damon Jones, director of Public and Government Relations for AAA Mississippi.

"Dartouts—children darting into traffic, often from between parked cars—are a typical problem," she continued. "Fifty-one percent of pedestrian deaths and injuries among children 5 to 9 years of age occur in attempts to cross or enter streets between intersections."

AAA Mississippi urges motorists to obey reduced speed limits in school zones and be extra alert for children walking, biking and getting on or off school buses. Special attention should be given to obstacles such as cars, shrubbery, etc., that might block a driver's view of a youngster about to dart into the roadway.

It's also important to be ready for sudden stops caused by school buses taking on and discharging passengers, or adult school crossing guards stopping traffic to let children cross the street.
